ONLY ONE BILLION
SHAW'S BUILDERS
POISON, 5 CENTS A DRINK

Four banks are to combine in New York City making a one-billion dollar concern that will have more branches than any other bank in America. It will not have more dollars, one billion being "small change" among institutions like the Chase, Equitable, National City, and others.

All things, even staid finance, change. Once a great bank took the same spot for a century or more. Now banks are in the chain of business, competing with big stores, cigar stores and gas stations for the best corners. To hold your place in this day, as Mr. Murphy said, it is necessary to keep moving.

Uncle Sam changes his view also. A few years ago he was chopping Standard Oil into little pieces because it threatened to become a billion dollar concern, which was more than he could stand.

Now, American Telephone and Telegraph alone owns five billion dollars worth of real assets, to say nothing of good will and franchise value, and Uncle Sam is calm. He has been in the billion dollar business himself since the big war.

George Bernard Shaw revealed a list of the "eight builders of universe" at a dinner in honor of Professor Einstein. His list read: Aristotle, Pythagoras, Copernicus, Ptolemy, Galileo, Kepler, Newton, Einstein.

It is a good list, although the future has still to pass on Einstein's right to a place in it.

Shaw might have crowded in Archimedes, who did so much in physics that for one thousand years nothing of importance was added to his work. And he might well have included Descartes, one of the six greatest astronomers.

Prohibition agents report a place in New York where something called whisky is sold for five cents a drink, 15 cents for a full pint.

The art of making spirits, which was unknown to the ancients, never produced anything more horrible than the vile concoction sold for five cents a drink. It is said to be worse even than the product of New York's bowery "smoke houses."

The convention will be held at the Cleveland public auditorium with H. A. Bathrick of Cleveland, as general chairman. The Cleveland symphony orchestra will furnish music.

The city of Cleveland will act as host to the visiting teachers at all programs arranged at the city's museums, institutes and colleges.

Election of new officers will be included on the program at business sessions.

CANTON PROBES HOME BOMBING

Nick Gentile, 33, Held; Will Probably Be Charged With Obtaining Money by Threat

CANTON, Oct. 30.—One man is in custody and other arrests are expected to follow shortly as Sheriff Ed Gibson and his deputies seek to clear up the recent bombing of the home of Nick Grant, a well-to-do Middlebranch contractor, which occurred on the evening of Sept. 26.

Nick Gentile, 33, formerly of California and Mansfield, is under arrest and will be charged in all probability with obtaining money by threat. Immediately after his arrest he was taken to another city where he is still being held for questioning.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant and their six children were uninjured when a dynamite charge was exploded under a corner of the porch of their home. Some days later, the sheriff revealed today, Grant received a letter written in Italian in which a demand for the payment of $5,000 was made on a threat of personal injury to members of his family.

ANNUAL DRIVE TO GET UNDER WAY NEXT WEEK

Salem Chapter Seeks To Maintain High Standing In State

COMMITTEES NAMED BY PRESIDENT DUNN

Mercy Chieftain Stresses Importance Of Relief Work

Plans for the annual Red Cross roll call, to start next week, have been completed by Salem chapter, American Red Cross.

Committees have been appointed by President W. H. Dunn to conduct an active campaign to enroll at least as many members as were enlisted last year. In 1929 Salem led the state in percentage of roll call membership to population. Its percentage was 21.75, Elvira being second with 16.89.

In a statement today, President Dunn emphasized the need for maintaining this high percentage because of the urgent demands for Red Cross service in Salem. Salem chapter, he pointed out, has been called upon to do more for needy families in the last few months than for many years.

"With the approach of winter," said Mr. Dunn, "the work of the Red Cross in Salem is certain to be heavier than it has been and it is essential that Salem chapter be prepared to extend all help possible to those in actual need. This can be done only through the united support of its membership. Salem people always have realized the importance of this work and I feel confident they will rally to the call in the present campaign."

Mrs. Myra B. Woodruff, home service secretary, who directs relief work in Salem, also urged Salem people to respond to the roll call as readily as they have done in other years.

More relief to the needy has been extended during the summer of 1930 than ordinarily is the case in the winter months, according to Mrs. Woodruff. Red Cross funds have practically been exhausted by this unusual demand for help, she said, and if the Red Cross is to take care of needy cases during the coming winter, support must be given the chapter by enlisting in the annual roll call during November.

Special reference to this appeal will be made in Salem churches next Sunday.

CHURCH GROUP TO GIVE SHOW

Methodist Class Seeking Funds For Education In France

Old style costumes, some of them 75 to 100 years old, will be worn by characters in the comedy, "The Spinster's Return" which will be presented at 8 tonight by the Unity Bible class in the Methodist church.

All of the cast, with the exception of two, are members of the class.

The organization is educating a French girl, who is in an Americanization school in France, and each year appropriates a fund for this purpose. The proceeds from the play will aid in this purpose.

The play is a humorous presentation. The "spinster," who have formed a club, hear that men with "gold lined pockets" are plentiful in Alaska and decide to go to that country.

Some are successful and others are not. The play shows a reunion of the spinsters at which they tell of their experiences in Alaska.

Ross Helman is director and Mrs. W. L. Miller is his assistant.

Mrs. J. A. Winart, president of the club, takes the leading role. Mrs. E. I. Smith and Mrs. W. H. Zimmerman are secretary and treasurer, respectively. Others included in the cast are:

Mrs. W. L. Miller, Mrs. E. F. Naragon, Mrs. T. S. Davis, Mrs. C. W. Kaminsky, Mrs. W. W. Stringer, Mrs. Herbert Lora, Mrs. W. E. Webster, Mrs. H. I. Coburn, Mrs. W. E. Bulkley Prohibition Stand Criticized By College Head

Dr. W. H. McMaster Commends Efforts To Repeal Dry Laws

The furthering of not only national but world prohibition was urged by Dr. W. H. McMaster, president of Mt. Union college, as he criticized the attitude of Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, Democratic nominee for senator, in an address last night at the high school here.

Bulkley is opposing United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, of Canton, an avowed dry, who is seeking re-election at the polls next Tuesday.

Dr. McMaster's address was delivered to approximately 500 high school students, their parents and friends, in connection with an education week observance.

Expressing opposition to Bulkley's prohibition stand, the college leader declared emphatically that it would be wrong to banish, if possible, the 18th amendment, and urged that his hearers strive not only for national prohibition but the elimination of liquor traffic from the universe.

Education should produce leaders for democracy, Dr. McMaster pointed out.

"God knows we need leaders who can understand our problems and think things through," he asserted. "Let us by our education produce leaders who can guide us correctly in the time of crises such as that which confronts us at the election next Tuesday."

In speaking of Canada's system of dealing with the liquor interests, Dr. McMaster stated that the only people in Canada pleased with it were the liquor men. "The Christian people there are not satisfied with it," he said.

Dr. McMaster emphasized the value of cooperation between the parents and the schools. He asked the support of the bond issue for a new high school building.

"Salem would do well to build a new high school, the crowded condition of the auditorium tonight being an argument for it," he said.

Wilbur J. Springer, high school principal, presided at the meeting and presented the speaker.

Supt. John S. Alan, told of the need of a new high school building, and showed plans for it.

Henry Reese represented the student body, giving a brief talk, welcoming the visitors, and discussing high school activities.

Salem high school band entertained preceding the program. Approximately 500 parents and friends visited the night classes.

27 LOSE LIVES AS QUAKE HITS ITALIAN TOWNS

Great Property Damage Recorded In Three Provinces

MILITARY UNITS AID IN DISASTER

Government Sends Relief Squads To Stricken Areas

(By Associated Press)

ANCONA, Italy, Oct. 30.—Twenty-seven persons were known to have lost their lives in heavy earthquake shocks in 13 towns in provinces of Ancona, Pesaro and Macerata early today. There was great property damage throughout the area.

Five persons lost their lives in Ancona.

Twenty were killed in Senigallia and two others in the surrounding district.

Among the towns where damage was caused were Ancona, Ravenna, Frabiano, Fano, Macerata, Montalbano, Morozzo, Grottamare, Faenza and Borzaso.

Communication was restored with some of the quake ridden towns this afternoon and military units rushed into the region have reached many of the affected places.

The earthquake area extends for many miles along the Adriatic coast and across the upper portion through the Umbrian and Picenum hills, the middle northern range of the Apennines and far to the north of the disaster of last July.

Practically the whole of the Italian peninsula felt the shocks.

The government before dawn had dispatched relief companies into the area.

The rescuers had not at mid-afternoon been able to convey any adequate report of the destruction.

THREE SCHOOLS GIVE PROGRAMS

Education Week Features Attract 600 Parents and Friends

Approximately 600 parents and friends visited in three of Salem's public schools Wednesday when programs were given in observance of Education week, marking the close of the celebration here.

At Junior high, J. L. Gray, assistant superintendent of Columbiana county schools, gave a talk on "Guiding" as relating to education. F. J. Emery, president of the board of education, discussed the proposed bond issue for a new high school building, to be voted on next Tuesday.

The Junior high school orchestra furnished music. Christina Robinson played a violin solo, accompanied by Dorothy McConner.

"The Prospector in Education" was the subject of a talk by Rev. A. C. Westphal, pastor of the First Baptist church, at the East Fourth street school.

Other numbers on the program there were: Clarinet and violin duet, Kenneth Shears and Arthur Bahm, accompanied by Louise Wiggins on the piano; song by the First grade pupils; piano duet, Jean Kingsley and Mary Grafton; solo dance, Mary Butler; vocal solos, Miss Grace P. Orr, accompanied by Mrs. A. W. Stoner; piano solo, Mrs. T. G. Lee; talk by Supt. John S. Alan.

WATER SUPPLY TO BE BOOSTED BY NEW WELLS

City Officials Make Tests Today On Property Of J. T. Smith

Tests to ascertain the maximum capacity of the J. T. Smith wells, located in the northwest section of the city, as a possible source for a future water supply for Salem, are being conducted under supervision of Service Director Clyde R. Reich and City Engineer F. S. Barchhoff today.

A newly designed electric pump, manufactured by the Deming Pump company here, was connected with one of the Smith field wells shortly before 2 p. m. Wednesday and the well was kept operating with a flow of 100 gallons a minute for 14 hours. The well was lowered 56 inches at the expiration of the 14-hour period.

J. T. Smith, East Third street, owner of the well field, last year offered to sell the entire farm, which includes the wells, to the city and the tests are being held by the service department officials here to determine benefits the city may derive from their purchase. Tests conducted up until noon today were satisfactory.

Chemical analysis of the water showed a hardness content with a large portion of alkali which to a certain degree neutralizes the hard effect. Barchhoff stated. Taste of the water is pleasing, the officials said.

No definite plans have been made for purchase of the wells, Reich stated, in that at the present time there is no great urgent need for an additional supply of water. During last summer, when other cities throughout the country suffered seriously from lack of water because of the drought, Salem's supply was never lowered to any noticeable degree.

Action concerning the Smith field may be taken to avert any possible future shortage in supply, which, however, is not regarded imminent by the officials.

A complete test will be conducted and a specific report will be made on the results by Barchhoff and Reich.

FAIR OFFICERS PLAN ELECTION

Columbiana County Agricultural Society To Meet In Court House Saturday Afternoon

The Agricultural society sponsors the annual Columbiana county fair and the activity of the society this year was such that a profit was shown when the fair closed. It was the first time in history that the county had a night fair. It has already been determined to have a night fair next year, and a feature of the 1931 event will be a wild west rodeo.

FLAYS BULKLEY REPEAL STAND; LAUDS COOPER

Stands "Four-Square" For Constitutional Law Enforcement

HIGH STANDARD OF LIVING HIS GOAL

Urges Protective Tariff, Scientifically Administered

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 30.—Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch today laid before electors of the state a definite enunciation of the platform on which he is seeking re-election.

McCulloch made his pronouncement at a Republican mass meeting here last night, prefacing his speech with a denunciation of his Democratic opponent, Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland, repeal advocate, and declaring the "issues in this campaign are clearly drawn."

"I stand four-square for the constitution of the United States and for constitutional law-enforcement," he declared, flaying Bulkley's attitude on prohibition. "I am for prohibition and I believe our laws should be strengthened and not weakened."

"I stand for the protective tariff principle scientifically applied as a sound economic policy of government."

"I believe the adoption of the flexible provisions of the act of 1930 was one of the greatest steps forward in the history of American tariff making."

"I stand for the American standard of living and I would like to see it higher."

"I stand for the American standards of wages upon which our American standard of living is based."

"I want to see our people prosperous, enjoying as many of the luxuries of life as possible."

"I want to see our children get their chance in the world through higher education and better living conditions."

Will Guard Prosperity
"So long as I remain your senator I propose to stand for America first. I propose to help guard our prosperity and I propose to help guard our liberty."

The issues of the campaign are clearly drawn, McCulloch said.

"Shall we abandon the policies of government that have made us great?" he asked. "Shall we turn our backs on our experience of the past?"

"My opponent is opposed to restricting immigration. He would let down the bars and permit the hordes of foreign countries to flow in unrestrained, taking the jobs of American working men and women."

"By his voting record in congress he is committed to the philosophy of 'I want to see our people prosperous, enjoying as many of the luxuries of life as possible.'"

Likes Shaw

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 30.—This will have happened to thousands of school children all over our country, my three came dragging in last night from three different schools, and I immediately asked 'em if they had heard Bernard Shaw's great speech over the radio.

They all said "no, their teachers had been listening to them." Now here was perhaps the most brilliant and wittyest speech of our times, brought right to us by this great invention. Yet teachers give their own lectures instead of Shaw's.

Even the newspapers only published extracts of it, but they published all their own editorials, they were improving on Shaw, too, so what good does it do to have a brilliant man tell you something?

ENGLAND NEXT?

The unrest which has produced revolutions and changes in government throughout the world may produce results in England before Christmas, if the expectations of well-informed observers are realized. There will be no bloodshed, no rioting, no undue excitement even, but there is every reason to believe that a new party will come into control soon.

There is no particular issue scheduled to come before Parliament of sufficient importance to warrant a change in government if the Labor party is defeated, but if it fails to receive a vote of confidence the party has no choice. Any one of several issues in which President Hoover sustained defeat during the last session of congress would have been considered sufficient for a change of government in England.

The two most important problems before England at the moment are imperial economies and India. When Parliament reconvened last Tuesday the imperial conference, of which much was expected, was still in session but dying slowly. The stubbornness of Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, was a hard blow to the conference, and the united stand of the Labor and Liberal parties against protective tariff made it clearly evident that Great Britain is in no danger of turning into an openly protectionist country.

A few days after the imperial conference closes, the India conference will open. The task of planning a satisfactory government for one-fifth of the world's population would be a certain stumbling block for any government—if the government's enemies had any ideas of their own. But on the Indian issue, as on the trade protection issue, there is no massed unity of opinion. Ramsay MacDonald has plotted his course wisely to please as many as possible and to affront none of them. Neither issue carries the explosive which might overthrow the Labor party.

Two other items of legislation, not so important in a world sense but vital to Britishers, are the insurance fund and amendment of the trade union act. The trade union act suppressed sympathetic strikes in Britain and changed the system by which trade unions levied on their members to support the Labor party. The Labor party, whose revenues have decreased, has pledged itself to revise the latter feature, and it also would like to make a change in the provision which makes a sympathetic strike unconstitutional. In both respects it faces a quarrel with the Liberal party. Any change in the insurance laws would mean dealing directly with the British workingman and hard feeling would be inevitable.

In all probability, however, it will be some question that has not arisen yet which will trip up the Labor party. The stage is set. Mr. MacDonald requested that his party be sustained until the London naval treaty was ratified. That has been done. He has asked for the chance to try to believe depression. He has had it and could do nothing. England probably will be the next country, therefore, to experience a major political change.

CONGRATULATIONS

SYMPATHY

The state of Ohio hastens to proffer its congratulations to Miss Agnes Heskitt, who will preside as homecoming queen over the festivities this week-end at the state university. Football fans in the state insert their wish that the university team, which meets Wisconsin on its home field for the first time in 10 years, will not try to outdo Miss Heskitt in graciousness.

But with congratulations comes a little card. On it is penned one word, sympathy. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

Miss Heskitt, Ohioans are informed, was a kind of queenly "dark-horse" in the regal competition. She did not enjoy wide popularity and was not included in the sorority crowd; in fact, she even worked as a stenographer to help pay her way at the university. But she was a blonde five feet three inches tall and registered the very proper weight of 110 pounds. More important, perhaps, is the fact that she had the backing of a well-organized group, no member of which was convinced apparently, that membership in a sorority was a long-time lease on popularity, ability or beauty.

But to get back to the reasons for extending sympathy as well as congratulations to Miss Heskitt—for some reason the prospect of reigning as queen over several dozen defeated candidates whose conduct over the week-end may well be expected to conform to that of the average American in the presence of make-believe royalty isn't appealing. It is easy to imagine that and the other. Hers is a responsibility that falls upon few ladies outside the charmed circle ruled by America's internationally famous queen—Alice Roosevelt Longworth. And Miss Heskitt, they say, is only 22.

So hail to the queen! Long live the queen! And high may she turn her nose in the presence of all ladies-in-waiting—and successfully, too, may she get away with it!

What Others Say

KEEP MEANS OF DEFENSE

On a certain very recent day 100,000 members of the Stahlheim, the German Nationalist War Veterans' league, made an imposing parade at Coblenz. In reference to this spectacular activity the French war minister delivered himself of some plain declarations. M. Maginot said that France would be wise to keep her means of defense. He cried out that France should not handish the sword, but neither should she break it across the knee. Specifically:

"Those who profess to believe that an adequate army and well-fortified frontiers are a provocation to war might as well say that the strong safes or hermetically sealed doors are a cause of thefts. They might as well say that the maintenance of a police force is an invitation to break the law. It is not by depriving a people of their legitimate means of defense that the cause of world peace is promoted. We shall reduce our armament whenever our national security is completely assured by other means—not before."

The French war minister is not convinced that peace in Europe is in the way of becoming an actuality. He does not wish to see a resumption of war, but he vividly recalls two foreign invasions within a half century and declares that his people are not willing again to take mortal risks. Peace in Europe, he thinks, "still has only a very precarious foothold."

Men and nations can not be blamed for recognizing facts as they are—at least, as they seem to be—Cincinnati Enquirer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. — Broadway's numberless tiny specialty perfume and other luxuries offer a shops devoted to millinery, lingerie, study in commercial sagacity and bravado. That they survive the more formidable competition about them is due to an uncanny flair for sales psychology.

For such two-by-two space the rentals in the more desirable locations run as high as $20,000 a year, although the average is around $6,000. In a single block stretching between 42d and 50th streets are 26 of these cubicle sales rooms. None would hold a dozen customers comfortably.

They depend solely on the lure of window displays to draw customers for their rare advertise. Once inside you face the cunning of a spider spinning its web. The cunning proprietress is known to the salesgirl as "Modom." She is in the background until the sales punch is needed.

Then she whirls zooming out of verisim, ampe-bosomed, double-chinned and fiercely convincing. She has acquired a musical company foreign accent and her stock phrases are "tres chic" and "tres bon." She carries a customer away with the sheer force of her honey-sweet guile.

Often goods are shoddy and cannot be exchanged. Yet it is only fair to chronicle many diminutive establishments are reliable and have been in existence for years. The patronage is chiefly among crepe de Chine ladies, chorus and manicure girls and cashiers.

They open before 9 in the morning and a large percentage remain open until midnight and after. Hosiery shops do an especially large business after theater. Gentlemen on the way home with mademoiselles of the moment are potted by window displays. And diggety-diggety! How they dig!

Another subtle and almost sure-fire appeal to idolatrous Broadway is an autographed array of photographs. If a shop keeper can offer self-signed soulful poses inscribed: To Madam Claire, from Leonore Uhl! she finds the sheep will come tumbling in.

Yesterday I passed the site of the old "Alligator" on the Bowery. In recent days it lived the blazest of hums around Brooklyn bridge. A nickel beer would be served with two straws and if you spent quarter you fell heir to a free ticket to the "flip room" in the rear. The proprietor had the euphonious name of Percival Paraway Potts. Today an electrical store occupies the space.

The Bowery's electric third-rail beer has been supplanted by a milky white mixture known as "smoke." Those who partake stagger for a few blocks and fall into a semiconscious heap—the Bowery way of forgetting for a little while.

At least there is something different in the alibi of a Broadway actor returning from Hollywood who Mickey Neelan reports, did not remain because there were not enough directors to go around.

And there is a chuckle in a pleasant anonymous correspondent who who signs off with: From one who is not too truthfully all there."

The columnist given to juggling the personal pronoun I—stuck around, I'll be going in a minute—makes himself a target for a barrage of sarcasm that is often venomous. Yet as one of the "I mind-ed" it has always seemed to me more direct and honest than the variously pluralized "we." The truth is with one or two exceptions, no columnist takes himself very seriously.

seriously despite his I's. We are for the most part just a pack of clerks cutting capers in ink and if we offer a diverting movement or so in the daily grind you can't imagine how happy we are.

Furthermore there are very few chores that offer such a compensatory glow. This, for instance, from a sanitarium in the Arizona desert and by telegraph, too: "We are three girls on the last lap of the cure. In bed for two years, it would have been unbearable without the thoroughness and cheer of you columnists."

This is a true incident in the life of a wealthy New York bachelor. After years of incompetency he acquired an almost perfect Japanese valet, save he speaks little English. So the bachelor is studying the language of Japan. And if that isn't valet loyalty I promise never to run another valet item, so help me.

SPRING-HOLZWARTH

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Operations No Longer Dreaded

Many advances have been made in surgery during the past twenty-five years. In no other way is this better shown than in the reduced mortality rate of appendicitis.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Appendicitis no longer excites the fear it formerly did. This is due in a large measure to the education both of the surgeon and of the lay public. We have learned to respect the disease and to make sure there is proper handling of it in every form.

It is interesting to note that appendicitis is rare in infants and in those over sixty years of age. It is common in any period beyond childhood, being more frequent in young and middle-aged people. It is more common in males than in females and occurs more frequently in the summer than in other seasons. It is a disease met often in warm countries.

Injury Dangerous

Appendicitis is usually traced to a germ, called the "colon bacillus." It may be the result of other types of bacteria, but this is the common with its ear on the ground—Birmingham News.

The colon bacilli are normal inhabitants of the appendix, and under normal conditions are harmless. It is when the appendix is bruised or injured that these germs are capable of causing an infection.

Recently it was shown by a great scientist that certain poisons which enter the circulation may have an affinity for a "specific action" on the appendix. Such poisons may come from an unsuspected focus in the body. This may be quite distant from the appendix, from the teeth for instance.

In some cases the disease begins suddenly, ushered in by sudden severe pain in the abdomen. In most cases there have been previous symptoms. Most important of these signs are constipation or diarrhoea, a general feeling of uneasiness and discomfort in the lower abdomen. Nausea is always present, with vomiting which may occur as late as four or five hours after the onset of the pain.

Appendicitis as we have spoken of it here is commonly called "Acute Appendicitis." It may require immediate surgical attention or the patient may recover under careful medical attention.

No case should be treated without the careful supervision of a physician. Remember that once a patient has had an attack of appendicitis, he is liable to suffer again if the appendix has not been removed.

The statesman's statue that fell off its pedestal some time ago was said to look much more natural with its ear on the ground—Birmingham News.

The Stars Say

For Friday, October 31

Despite some chaotic or confusing situations of a more or less baffling or intriguing nature, there should be a very lively day, eventually one of much substantial accomplishment. While new undertakings are under this singular or sinister vibration, yet the Saturn force for stabilizing and tenacity should assist in vanquishing these hidden adverse forces. Waiting, meticulous tailoring. Smart industry and employment are all under productive way.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of much stable growth and advancement, mainly through their personal application and indomitable perseverance. Precaution and diligence may be called upon to effect sinister and chaotic situations, especially in relation to new projects or alliances. Employment, labor, writers, publishers and trade are under good auspices also property interests and old established connections. A child born on this day should be brilliant, versatile, responsible and practical, and should reach secure place in life through its own industry and efficiency.

GIVES VOTERS HIS PLATFORM

Stands "Four-Square" On Constitutional Law Enforcement

The international banker who is demanding that the American standard of living should be brought down to the standard of foreign countries in order that international industrialists may make more millions through international trade.

"My opponent, if elected, would join the southern Democrats who for 18 months used every means, fair or foul, to tear down and destroy confidence in our great president at a time when public confidence was of extreme importance.

"Do we want two more years of calamity howling and unfair interference with our president, with but one purpose in view, that being to accomplish the election of a Democratic president in 1932?"

"My opponent would wipe from the statute books of the nation all federal laws relating to the liquor traffic, thereby nullifying the constitution.

Upholds Constitution

"He offers not a single constructive suggestion to take the place of the laws he would wipe out."

In making known his own stand on prohibition, McCulloch said:

"Prohibition is no issue so far as the platforms of the two great parties are concerned. Both platforms stand for law enforcement. I stand for the constitution of the United States and I stand for constitutional law enforcement. My record in this question is my voting record. When a member of the house of representatives I voted to refer the eighteenth amendment to the states for ratification or rejection, and I voted for all enabling legislation. I have not changed my position on this question. I am for prohibition. We must take no backward step on this great moral question."

In conclusion the speaker paid high tribute to Governor Myers Y. Cooper's administration which he characterized as "the most constructive record of accomplishment of any in the history of the state." He termed Cooper "our greatest governor in history."

WALSH TO FACE BIGAMY CHARGE

East Liverpool Woman, Suing For Divorce Finds Hubby is Twice Wed—Now in Jail

LISBON, Oct. 30.—When Florence Walsh of East Liverpool filed a divorce action against her husband, James H. Walsh, recently, an affidavit was filed also that the whereabouts of the defendant was unknown. The case is soon to be set for trial, and Attorney Samuel W. Crawford of East Liverpool went to Chillicothe to obtain some depositions.

At Chillicothe, Crawford found that Walsh had another wife whom he married April 23, 1927, and that he married his second wife, who is now applying for a divorce, at New Cumberland, W. Va., June 9, last. It was also learned that Walsh was confined in the Fairfield county jail at Lancaster, and that Walsh was wanted on other charges, in addition to a charge of bigamy that has been filed against him in the municipal court at East Liverpool.

When the divorce action was filed, constructive service upon Walsh was obtained by advertising the case, but since he has been located, the defendant is to be served with a personal summons and a copy of the petition, and the case put over for hearing until December.

Mrs. Walsh No. 2 in her divorce petition set up that her husband had been married previously and that Mrs. Walsh No. 1 has not been divorced and is living.

AUTO LICENSES SHOW DECREASE

25 Sets Of New Plates Are Sold To Salem Owners During Month

A total of 25 sets of license plates were sold to Salem automobile owners this month, court reports show. Sale of licenses to owners in this city netted the county $104.20. A new low level was reached in county sales, only 250 sets being distributed as compared to 54, during September.

Sales resulted in a total collection of $452.29 being credited to municipal corporations and $230.85 to the county road and bridge repair fund. The state is granted $583.20.

In East Liverpool 72 sets of plates were sold for a return of $178.44. Other cities and villages obtained the following: Wellsville, 29 sets, $70.39; East Palestine, eight sets, $23.57; Leetonia, three sets, $7; Lisbon, 15 sets, $37.71; Columbiana, six sets, $16.45; New Waterford, three sets, $11.53; Washingtonville, one set, $3.

All unold 1930 auto and truck license plates are to be returned to the state registrar of motor vehicles early in December. From some small communities in this county unold plates have already been returned.

New 1931 plates are expected to be received in this county Nov. 15, but will not be placed on sale at that time.

OUR READERS

Editor The News: Those who observe, think, reason and are ever-lasting familiar with history, must realize that we are now in a super-special, revolutionary period of life upon our planet.

I am not a member of any church, except that I held a birth-right in the Hickite society of Friends. It would be inconsistent for me to join any church, because I am not a "Christian" in the real meaning of the term.

It is a remarkable fact that the Christian churches, so called, have never yet given to the world a standard definition of Christianity.

There is a multitude of sects, and each has a definition that in some respects, differs from all others. Yet it is clear in my mind that it is a very simple problem to find and adopt a standard definition. It can be brief. Let me give my definition for candid analysis.

A genuine Christian is one whose life, in all social and business relations with his fellow men, is loyal to and in harmony with the moral law given to the world by the Great Master, in his Sermon on The Mount.

How many of us can stand up and hold up our hands and say, "I am a good Christian?" We, for example, all defend and practice "Innocence." It was actually forbidden by Jesus and for 300 years was condemned and forbidden by the primitive Christians. I need not enumerate many other transgressions.

Would it not be wise for all of us to take an invention of our doing as individuals, and especially our political, social and economic institutions?

We boast of being the richest nation in the world. And yet we have millions of men and women in enforced idleness. Thousands actually hungry and many starving.

In Heaven's name is this condition anything short of a national crime? What official or candidate has told us why?

We behold the politicians and candidates and partisans of the old parties abusing each other in a spirit of intolerance and hate, each claiming to be the incarnation of political righteousness. And then to see the great army of industrial workers, embracing 90 per cent of the voters, beholding this sad aspect and taking sides with one or the other, in mental blindness and political insanity. Too bad.

I do not offer any apology for staying away from these parties and lineups.

In conclusion I beg to say to my fellow citizens, that a little thinking and study of "Revelation" and the prophecies of St. John and Daniel and other old prophets, have convinced me that we are right now in the "Days of Trouble" foretold by them.

My advice to all, old and young, read Revelation. The wise men of the world are warning us. The millions of voters without work, ought to prepare red banners, put them on poles and hold them up at all political meetings, with these words painted on them, "Woe unto the nation that enacts unrighteous decrees." This would be a healthy medicine for the soul sick "stand-patters." After election I would like to have all of them in my Sunday school class.

Signed,
CHARLES BONNALL

BROWN SPEAKER AT G. O. P. RALLY

Lieutenant Governor Appeals To Women To Uphold Republican
Issues Tuesday

STEUBENVILLE, Oct. 30.—Lieutenant Governor John Brown appeared to women to uphold Republican issues in the coming election, when he spoke at a dinner here last night tendered by Mrs. Ha Marshall Cronin, East Liverpool, state central committeewoman from the eighteenth district. "The Republican party has always stood for good, clean, honest government and has to its credit the enactment of practically all the constructive laws protecting the home," he said. He sounded praise for the administration of Governor Cooper, citing road improvements, aid for weak school districts, and care for unfortunate wards of the state.

The lieutenant governor drove here from his home at Pleasant View, near Columbus, today. This afternoon he addressed farmers from a wide radius at the grange hall in Richmond, and tonight he will speak at the final rally in the Jefferson county Republican campaign.

where men pay 10 cents a drink for denatured alcohol and water.

The British labor government is waging one thing, MacDonell, refuses to consider any tariff on wheat.

To tax bread in a country unable to support more than half of its population would seem the limit of foolishness.

France manages to help farmers without increasing the price of bread. Every barrel of flour used in France must contain a certain percentage of French grown wheat. The percentage is adjusted according to the size of the French crop. By this arrangement the French farmer gets for his wheat in cash more than double the price paid to the American or Canadian farmer. And the French people buy good bread much more cheaply than we buy it in America. Wise Frenchmen.

A member of congress says the bushel of wheat for which our farmer gets sixty cents, when made into bread, sells for six dollars. And a great baking concern says the price of bread has little to do with the price of wheat. It's a matter of wages.

One fact receives too little attention. It costs too much to distribute goods in the United States. Production is on an efficiency basis, distribution on an extravagant basis.

POWER TESTS placed Refiners "Special" first

PRACTICAL road tests, recently completed, have proven the outstanding performance of Refiners "Special" in comparison with ten other popularly priced motor fuels. In Acceleration, Power and Mileage "Special" won first place. Power is one of the principal qualities by which good fuel is judged. In the impartial test for power, conducted by a New York consulting chemist, "Special" scored a 12 per cent advantage over the average results of the other ten fuels.

You can check for yourself the power of Refiners "Special." Stop at the nearest Refiners pump and get a tank-full. Then try your car on some hill with which you are thoroughly familiar. Note the steadiness of pull—and the smooth working of your engine. And don't miss the way the car accelerates as the grade falls off at the top of the hill.

With "Special" costing no more than other brands of popularly priced gasoline, it gives you top-list rating on Acceleration, Power and Mileage. Try it! THE REFINERS OIL COMPANY

I certify that the charts reproduced in this advertisement are accurately based upon tests supervised by me and that the results of these tests are correctly interpreted herein.

SELLING HITS STOCK RALLY

Balks Efforts To Bring Prices To Higher Levels

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Renewed selling drove the stock market down in the earlier hours today after an effort to rally prices from a lower opening had proved futile. Persistent liquidation of various specialties, notably Coca Cola which tumbled 11 points, encouraged short selling. The turnover, however, was small.

U. S. Steel dropped more than 2 points to 146 which contrasted with its Tuesday high of 154. Eastman Kodak was again soft, losing several points, while Allied Chemical dropped more than 5. Stocks losing 2 to 3 included American Telephone, Gillette, American & Foreign Power, Johns-Manville, Air Reduction, United Aircraft, Columbian Carbon, Union Carbide and Atchafalaya.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

SET DEADLINE FOR ABSENTEES

Election Heads Rule Ballots Must Be Procured By Saturday

The Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections today warned that users of disabled voters' or absentee voters' ballots must act not later than Saturday.

Election rules also provide that officials may grant certificates of change of residence until three days before the election which makes Saturday the deadline.

Illness or other infirmity will not deprive electors of casting a vote this year. The new elections code provides a way to legalize their ballots. Persons permanently confined in a home or hospital under circumstances that would prevent actual appearance at the polls, may make application to the election clerk and may vote under the absent voters' law.

In the application, the nature of the illness or infirmity must be set forth and it must be accompanied by the certificate of a physician giving the facts relating to the illness and an affidavit signed by the applicant and two other qualified voters. Application in Salem must be made to the board of elections in East Liverpool.

Voters who will be 50 miles or more from Salem on election day, may apply for absent voters' ballots and upon satisfying the election clerk that the application is justified, votes may be cast. A number of Salem electors have voted already under this law.

Wellsville Expects To Give Salem Strong Battle On Saturday

THE DAY In Sports

INTEREST FADES HERE
HOPPE GIVES RADIO TALK

Willie Hoppe, world-famous billiard artist who, up until two years ago, held almost every world's billiard title, is expected to announce his debut before a microphone Wednesday night in an interview conducted by Grantland Rice, sports writer. Naturally the interview was all about billiards.

Hoppe told how, at the age of seven, his father started him practicing billiards. For seven years he climbed a soap box four and five hours daily, and finally, at 15, he was able to enter competitions with the country's great cueists. At 16 he had been able to win the world 192 ball game but he was prevented from competing in tournaments because of his youth.

He annexed the world title when 18, however and for 24 years held on to it, until he lost a spectacular game to Young Jake Schaffer, whom he lauded in his speech last night. He blamed losing this match on "taking my eyes from the ball just a second."

"Because of the lack of action, billiards, same as golf, is entirely mental. Players, just the same as golf, must always remain alert, they should never become excited or tense. It is the greatest game in the world to avert old age. Men as old as 90 play billiards and of all the indoor athletics I know of none better."

Hoppe's career was marked by hard work. It is hard work to advance to distinction in the manner he did. He never smoked. Because of his care of his eyesight he never read, a secretary being retained to read to him while never a day, in the 24 years, was spent without practice.

Interest in the game is fading rapidly here. Where the green cloth of Jesse Schaffer's table was worn down quickly during a winter because of extensive use, seldom is anyone seen playing on it now-days. The same is true at Joe and John Evans. The old-timers of the game here—James R. Townsend and Alvin Dunlap, play little or no billiards.

Then too, there were Frank "Red" Wells, Gus Sechler, Harry Robinson, Royal Schiller, Ray "Chic" Alton, Hughie "Irish" McMillan, Kirby Walker, Pat Boien—all of whom played a good game last year—who have abandoned the art.

Team Of Veterans To Face Red And Black In County Grid Tilt

A team made up mostly of veteran gridiron material, touted as the strongest football machine developed in Wellsville High since 1923, clashes with Salem High school gridders at Wellsville Saturday afternoon.

Seven lettermen of the 1929 Orange and Black aggregation, principals in their team's present drive to a run of five consecutive victories, will be in the lineup against the Stonemen. None of the eleven players scheduled to start against the Quakers either were in the starting lineup against the Red and Black last year or experienced action as reserves.

Checker, Fulton and Kesler form Coach Dave Evans' strong backfield threats while on the line Wellsville has Diletteta, Daugherty, Eaton, Wyper and Shanks, all members of the 1929 varsity. Checker, the team's outstanding ball-carrier, was prevented from appearing against Salem last season because of injuries.

Kesler in Lineup
Kesler, hard-hitting fullback, accounted for his team's only score against the Stonemen with a sensational return of a kick-off by Bill Smith for a touchdown in '29.

The largest crowd to witness a game this season is anticipated by Wellsville school officials. A record-breaking attendance was present when the Evans-coached crew trimmed Toronto, 6-0, last Saturday, and officials there are making plans to accommodate a still larger crowd.

Stones at present apparently is planning no drastic changes in his lineup. Both Jack Carpenter and Johnny French, who have been injured in past games, were able to attend practice sessions at Centennial park during the week and it appeared likely that the former will be back in his halfback position against Wellsville. Whether French will see much action is doubted however, in that the Quakers have before them one of the three most important games of the season on the following Saturday, that with Youngstown South, and Stone is planning to take no chances with his star fullback.

French's absence from the lineup against Youngstown East was plainly seen despite the excellence of performance by Houts reserve backfield flash who carried the pigskin for consistent gains. Houts may be started with French ready to step into the contest in an emergency.

Diletteta and Shanks, veteran wingmen, will be at the ends for Evans with Daugherty and Wyper, another pair of lettermen at tackles. Eaton will be paired off with a newcomer, Luckino, at the guards while Roberts, reserve center of a year ago, will occupy the ball passing post.

Checker and Fulton will form the halfback combination with Kesler at full and Petrella, a lad with experience as a field general despite the fact that this is his first season as a regular, will call signals.

A strong passing attack, with Checker heaving the aerials, will probably be used as one form of attack by the southern county charges in an effort to register a victory over the Stonemen—the first, if they win, since '23. Then too, Evans is placing responsibility on the shoulders of Checker in another department, lacking for the halfback is expected to vie with Ed Beck, Salem triple-threat flash, for honors in punting duels. Checker has out-punted opposing booters in every game played this year by a wide margin. He also has accounted for the greater part of his team's points this season and was the high scorer last year in spite of the fact that he was out of the game part of the season because of injuries.

Wellsville Expects Victory
Wellsville gridders expect to give the Quaker City representatives a stiff battle and will also be striving for a decisive victory. It has been

WILLAMAN HAS AERIAL ATTACK FOR WISCONSIN

Ohio State Practices On Defense For Passes; Fesler At Full

COLUMBUS, Oct. 30.—That famous watchword of Verduin, "They shall not pass!" Might just as well be applied to the football battle impending in Ohio stadium Saturday between Wisconsin and Ohio State.

Wisconsin passes overhauled a good Pennsylvania team, 27 to 0. The Badgers are never more dangerous than when they get into the air. Consequently about all Coach Willaman hands his men these warm autumn days is how to catch passes, and how to knock them down.

For Ohio plans to fight passes with passes, it would seem. Yesterday, for instance, the varsity spent nearly the entire two-hour allotment of time in aerial offense and defense. With skeleton lines, composed only of a center and two ends, the first and second backfields took turns throwing passes and knocking them down.

Few of the aerials worked, largely because both sides were reading each other's minds and the receivers found the entire enemy secondary around their necks and in their hair every time they reached for the ball.

Few of the catches were easy but Weaver, rangy reserve end, who caught two of Dave Chizek's throws in the last period of the Michigan game, got under several nice ones today. His speed allowed him to outrun the secondary, even the fast Mr. Bob Grady.

Wesley Fesler, all-American end who is doubling in the backfield this season, was at fullback for one team, throwing the ball instead of catching it as he has done heretofore this year for the most part. Fesler's damaged right wrist was hurt again in practice Tuesday and will not permit him to be at his best as yet. Mandula, a big sophomore, and Chizek, also took their turn on the throwing end. Joe Benis, third string quarterback was most active in knocking down passes on defense, while Bob Horn intercepted a few.

Wisconsin, Ohio State Renew Grid Relations On Saturday

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The business of preparing Wisconsin for its invasion of Ohio State Saturday is costing Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite a lot of rest and is causing his squad an unprecedented amount of work on defensive measures.

The Buckeyes had an open date last Saturday, giving them two weeks during which to get primed for the Badgers, and depriving Wisconsin of the opportunity of scouting its next foe. Ohio State used the double wingback offensive in its game with Northwestern and Michigan, both of which resulted in Buckeye defeats.

Reports from Columbus hint that Coach Sam Willaman has used the two weeks to completely reorganize his defense.

Drills On Wing Back
Not knowing what Ohio State will use in its attack, Wisconsin has

Illinois has lost two Big Ten games, while Purdue has won two out of three, and appears to be gaining momentum.

Northwestern yesterday went through its last stiff drill in preparation for Minnesota Saturday. The Wildcat squad will leave tonight for Minneapolis, and will be at top strength.

The game will draw the biggest attendance of the week in the conference. Memorial stadium is sold out and around 50,000 will watch Minnesota attempt to spring a surprise on the Wildcats.

Chicago's squad continues to show improvement and Maroon hopes for a triumph over Princeton Saturday are high.

Iowa finished up preparation for its game with the University of Detroit, and was scheduled to leave Iowa City today.

MILTON, Ind.—E. M. Jones, 85, will retire soon, after 71 years of working in retail stores. He started as an apprentice clerk, receiving only board and clothing the first year.

"THE SEA WOLF"

At the State

Bringing the spirit of Jack London's famous "Sea Wolf" to the speaking screen with a graphic realism that the silent picture could never hope to equal, the late Milton Sills scores a triumph at the State tonight.

The part of the dominating, brutal sea-captain, an experimenter in the stuff of which men's souls are made, might have been written expressly for the noted player of two-fisted roles. And the two chief victims of his curiosity, Jane Keith and Raymond Hackett, are equally well cast in their respective leading parts, as, indeed, are the supporting players, especially Mitchell Harris, John Rogers, Ned Pendleton, Sam Allen, Harry Tenbrook and Harold Kinney.

Opening in Hakodate, Japan, where the Wolf is preparing to sail for the Aleutian sealing grounds, the story is colorful and intriguing from the very first. First-fights galore, in Sills' finest style; the shanghaing of the boy, his development under the stern and merciless environment, the sea battle with Drath Larsen's vessel, the escape of the young couple, and the final swift climax, all make "The Sea Wolf" one of the really outstanding vocal films of the year.

"THE BIG HOUSE"

At the Grand

"The Big House" all-talking drama of penitentiary riots, plays for the last time at the Grand tonight. Three central characters work out a dramatic story against seething hates and a desperate prison riot quelled with machine guns and tanks. A sympathetic love story of a boy and a girl is adroitly woven into the thrills, realisms, horrors and heart throbs of the massive play.

The three central characters are played by Chester Morris, Wallace Berry and Robert Montgomery, as three cellmates in the penitentiary. Friendship, jealousy, the corrosion of souls, and regeneration through love and turmoil are elements of the picture.

Lella Hyams plays the heroine, and the cast includes Lewis Stone, Karl Dane, George Marion, J. C. Nugent, De Witt Jennings, and Claire MacDowell. More than a thousand ex-servicemen took part in the prison yard and cell house scenes.

"CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD"

At the Royal

The immortal march of the Men of Marseilles is one of the most dramatic highlights of history, and in the all-sound musical romance "Captain of the Guard," is now being screened at the Royal.

The climax of "Captain of the Guard" is a climax which is approached through one of the most romantic, one of the most appealing love stories ever filmed. This beautiful romance is between Laura La Plante and John Boles, who are co-starred in the picture, during the course of which Boles' golden voice is heard in five entirely new songs, written especially for the picture by Charles Wakefield Cadman, America's favorite composer.

Will Ohio Answer the Challenge?

Governor
Myers Y. Cooper

YOU and yours, representing that great body of intelligent citizenship so often mentioned as "the backbone of the state", are facing a momentous test. Shall a safe and sound state administration, which has kept every promise, which has given Ohio good management, honest government and steady progress, be maintained? Shall a constructive program, to which men of integrity, of experience and with the courage of their convictions have given their best effort, be continued?

OR will you let specious arguments, promises that cannot be kept, attacks based on misrepresentations and a smoke screen of misleading propaganda, confuse you and divert you from voting for the best interests of the state, which are also your own best interests?

Does It Mean Anything to You THAT——the Pence Law, which allowed utilities to boost rates before justifying the increase, was repealed by this administration?

—the old election code was overhauled and made modern and efficient?

—a "Blue Sky" law, equipped with "teeth", was passed for the protection of investors?

—workmen's compensation claims are settled more speedily in the interests of those affected?

—a Department of Aeronautics was established bringing Ohio abreast of the times in this great new development?

—the State Library was reopened after being closed for months?

—more miles of highway were constructed than in any previous similar period and with considerable reduction of the cost per square yard?

—in spite of paying off an inherited debt of over $6,000,000, spending $2,000,000 more for education; expanding the welfare activities of the state beyond any previous record; in spite of reducing taxes by $2,000,000—in spite of everything, this administration will have an unencumbered cash balance by January 1st of $5,000,000 in the treasury?

If these things have real meaning for you, if you want this same forward looking, progressive policy continued for the next two years, you have it in your hands to make that possible. The way to do it is to
